ACS Benefit Services CEO Discusses Path to Success, Views on Effective Leadership, and More in “Leading from the Front!” Podcast Feature

Winston-Salem, NC – Leadership is a responsibility, not a position. Learning the difficult balancing act of effective leadership through compassionate accountability is at the core of the podcast "Leading from the Front!" with Dr. Gary McGrath, CSP®.

In the latest episode, ACS Benefit Services CEO Kari L. Niblack shares her stories of hard work and determination in completing her education over seven years while working full-time, how a zig-zag career can benefit you, the importance of developing leaders, and always staying true to her core personal beliefs and the conviction that surrounding yourself with people who believe what you believe is a winning strategy.

“Had an absolute blast visiting with Dr. Gary McGrath on his Leading from the Front podcast about building & fostering trust, engagement, visibility, compassionate accountability, the great importance of mentors, and ALWAYS taking the call,” Niblack said in a statement. “Have a cup of great coffee and a listen as we swap stories, laugh, and enjoy our time together.”
